ESSL asks applicants to sign a copy and return it to ESSL so as to acknowledge your acceptance of this User Agreement in full.

1. Using ESWD data

_____ (name of project or description of use)

- iv. The User may not publish raw ESWD data.
- v. The User may not transmit any raw ESWD data to another party.
- vi. In addition to raw ESWD data, iv and v also apply to derived works to which little scientific value has been added by the User, this to be judged by ESSL.
- vii. ESSL may grant exceptions to points ii, iii, iv, and v to the User. Such exceptions are only provided a priori and in writing.
- viii. Derived works may be presented in a scientific context (like a formal scientific publication or a contribution to a scientific conference) by the User, provided that the following source is in a well-visible and readable way:
Source: European Severe Weather Database, ESSL (eswd.eu).
- ix. The User must ensure that it is not possible that any third party can recreate the original data from the derived product with reasonable accuracy. In case of a formal scientific publication, the User must provide a reference to Dotzek et al. (2009) both in the text and the reference section.
- x. For scientific work based on ESWD data, it is recommended that the User reconcile the contents with ESSL prior to publication of its results to prevent any misinterpretation of the data to be published.
- xi. In case of violation of one or more of points i, ii, iii, iv, v, or viii, the User shall pay to ESSL a penalty corresponding to either 1) € 60,000, 2) five times the annual fee for an Institutional Supporting Member, or 3) the amount of actual damages caused to ESSL, whichever is higher.
